

/BY CHARLENE BROWN

BITCOIN

A FORCE

FOR GOOD

THE GREAT

ARBITRATOR

BORDERLESS

Bitcoin the Great Arbitrator

/BY CHARLENE BROWN

A tale of two states play out improv-style in real time. Backstage, Russia skirts sanctions by adopting bitcoin as legal tender and trades oil for BTC. Centerstage, Ukraine funds its military and bolsters its borders with crypto donations.

While crypto exchanges ban trades using the Russian ruble, many exchanges launch crypto wallets with Ukrainian benefactors.

No matter what side of the conflict your views land - or to whichever ancestry your DNA is rooted, Russia or Ukraine - no doubt whatsoever, you're in bitcoin country baby.

The DNA of bitcoin is borderless. It's gene pool is a protocol distributed ledger rendering software as a service.

A common denominator in Ukraine and Russia is the blue stripe in each of their flags. As swift as Russia invaded Ukraine early 2022, so swiftly has an orange and white flag been hoisted on both sides of the embankment.

For the first time in history, no dominating powers can stare down the CEO of bitcoin with demands to effect the outcome of the war. Bitcoin has no CEO. Bitcoin knows nobody's name or wants to. Bitcoin is ran by everybody who runs the bitcoin node on a decentralized network of computers worldwide. Soon, everybody will mine bitcoin. Bitcoin is owned by everyone who owns bitcoin.

Bitcoin bares no coat of arms. There is no emblem of a fierce two-headed eagle crested with stalks of wheat in its clutches. This flag depicts no roaring lion on hind legs ready to pounce.

The white and orange flag wasn't staked in the ground by a platoon or the advance cavalry. And there certainly won't be memes of a bitcoin flag flying high from the bow of oil ships off the Crimea peninsular.

The "B" encircled in orange at the center of a white flag, stands for BITCOIN the great arbitrator.

The war bares naked the challenge for citizens to trade freely within and without their borders. Russians, Ukrainians, citizens around the globe, privately stake and wave their orange on hard drives and in digital wallets on their cellular phones.

At lightning speed, the bitcoin flag flies on the blockchain, winning the war over individual financial freedom for all citizenry.

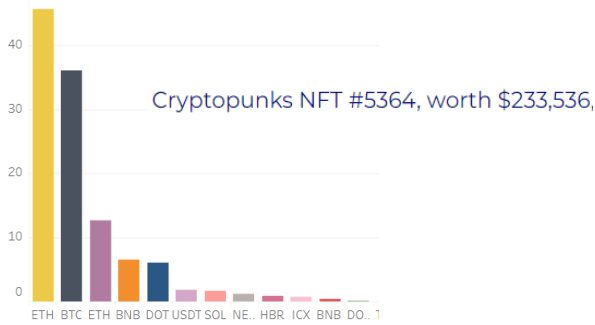

donate.thedigital.gov.ua 4:58 PM 4/17/2022

The community has already raised more than $60 million

450.891 BTC 9 408.037 ETH 434 249.848 DOT
9 378 466 USDT 7 733.684 SOL 2 031 112 USDC

Total Donations Received by Currency (Millions USD)

public.tableau.com/app/profile/rishav7094/viz/CryptoforUkraine/UkrainianDonations?publi

Russia finalizes bill on crypto, potentially accepting it as legal tender

Donato Kinova Last updated 17th Apr 2022 Cryptocurrency Regulations

https://bitcoinmagazine.com › markets › whither-bitcoi...
Whither Bitcoin Monetary Restructuring

5 days ago - While Russia's central bank wanted to ban bitcoin, the finance ministry opted to regulate it. After Russia was sanctioned, it has been considering accepting ...

https://www.investing.com › news › cryptocurrency-news

Belarus-born crypto platform halts operations for Russians in ...

5 days ago - Crypto trading company Currency.com has announced it halted operations for clients based in Russia following the country's "violence and disorder" imposed ...

https://www.bangkokpost.com › business › have-we-mi...

Have we missed the crypto boat? - Bangkok Post

8 hours ago - Cryptocurrencies such as Bitcoin, Ethereum and Solana quickly increased in value after Russia invaded Ukraine in late February. The war led to Western ...

https://www.caixabankresearch.com › financial-markets

Bitcoin: speculative bubble or currency of the future?

7 days ago - The last few weeks have been complicated for the bitcoin, the virtual ... that are also fiduciary but legal tender: by law, no-one is forced to accept it.

https://economictimes.indiatimes.com › topic › news

crypto donation News and Updates from The Economic Times

6 days ago - Pledge launches platform allowing NGOs to accept crypto payments ... Russia-Ukraine conflict may offer crypto an opportunity to go mainstream: KuCoin CEO ...